

Prepare to lead differently.

The SLII® Experience

Leaders who use a Situational Leadership approach raise morale, make others feel valued, and increase employee retention.

Davenport University's SLII® Experience program will help leaders apply the most comprehensive, tangible, and useful model of leadership available. Learn to use the appropriate leadership style in response to the needs of the person and the situation to create a motivating and engaging workplace where people develop and live up to their potential.

The SLII® Experience program provides a three part learning experience: Launch, Learn, and Practice. The course begins with a portfolio of online activities to set the context for learning and engage participants in the Situational Leadership content. Participants then learn the three skills, the language, and the six conversations of a Situational Leader and apply learning through robust skill practice relating to real work situations.

After completing this course, you will be able to:

- Maximize productivity and morale using a new language of leadership.
- Become a credible leader who is highly skilled at goal setting, coaching, evaluation, active listening, feedback, and proactive problem solving.
- Increase the quality of conversations you have with the people you lead (and influence).
- Help others develop their self-reliance.
- Reach agreements with others about how much direction and support they need to reach their goals.
